Martin Margiela / Initial Meeting Agenda

Project direction

- Create a quiet, experimental fashion archive about Martin Margiela. Focus on his work, materials, and ideas rather than celebrity or shopping.
- Keep the five-page structure: Home / Introduction, Early Life & Career, Fashion & Design, Beyond Fashion, and Sources & Image Credits.

Visual ideas to explore

- White background and generous empty space. Use black text and light gray details. Let garment and artwork photographs provide color. Avoid gradients, heavy shadows, and boxed content cards.
- Numbering inspired by clothing labels. Use 01-05 beside navigation names and small numbers for image captions. Try a thin circle around the current page number. Keep the names visible so navigation is clear.
- Four stitch-like marks. Place short, subtle marks around the title or a featured image, rather than drawing a complete frame. Use the motif sparingly.
- Typography: try Courier New or another simple monospaced font for headings, numbers, and captions; use a readable sans-serif for longer text.
- Photography: prioritize garments, construction details, labels, and selected artworks. Use short captions and image credits. Keep important details visible when cropping.

Two proposed mockup directions

- A. Label / Archive: a structured layout with numbered navigation, compact captions, a clear image-and-text arrangement, and small stitch details near the title.
- B. Gallery / Editorial: larger photographs, more open space, and an asymmetrical image-and-text composition. Keep the numbering and stitches, but make them secondary to the images.
- For each direction, prepare a desktop and mobile home-page view. Discuss whether a Fashion & Design interior-page view would help show the image captions and longer content.

Decide together during the meeting

- Which images should lead the home page? How should numbers and stitches appear without distracting from the work? Which font pairing is most readable?
- Confirm the views needed for both mockup sets, the delivery date, and how we will share feedback. Decide who will gather images and source credits.

These are starting ideas, not final decisions. Please explore alternatives for spacing, typography, and image placement while keeping the white, numbered, stitched visual direction. After the meeting, record both participants' names and roles, the meeting format/recording details, and the decisions we actually agree on.
